Nusfjord Arctic Resort

The Nusfjord Arctic Resort has to be the ultimate Scandinavian getaway. With just 20 full-time residents, this historic fishing village is now dedicated to getting its visitors as close to nature and its native wildlife as possible. Sat peacefully in a rugged corner of the breathtaking Lofoten archipelago, there are 25 colourful fishermen's cabins or rorbu to stay in, along with several restaurants, cafés or taverns to eat at within the village or along the waterfront. With fishing excursions, a sea eagle safari, mountaineering and kayaking among the many activities to enjoy, there's also a former salt house-turned-art gallery to visit, as well as a luxurious Arctic spa that has recently been built by graduates from the Oslo School of Architecture and Design. Featuring a traditional wood-fired hot tub, sauna and outdoor shower, what better way to recharge your batteries after a busy year than with a soak in its nurturing waters while enjoying the amazing sea view? Prices start at NOK 2,995 for a standard harbour cabin.
